Max interned for Popcorn for a few months, and during his time with us, he contributed a lot of value to the organization. He helped bolster our website backend and improved our website loading speed, which had been an issue for us for a few years despite our numerous unsuccessful attempts to resolve it. He also assisted with performing website/marketing audits for several of our clients. He is very knowledgeable when it comes to data analytics and was adaptable in that he was able to translate his experience in the engineering world into practical applications within marketing. He has a great attitude and is always willing to contribute and support the team. I would recommend Max for anything that he pursues in the future, whether it's in marketing or engineering, and I believe that he would be a tremendous asset to any organization. See less

Max's passion for data analytics and personal and professional growth was inspiring during his internship at Popcorn. I admire his constant willingness to learn, grow, and find ways to add value to the team. He was able to improve the speed, backend and redesign of the business website, develop social media automation tools, conduct web audits, and more. He takes constructive feedback well and I wish him all the best. See less

LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

To Whom It May Concern,

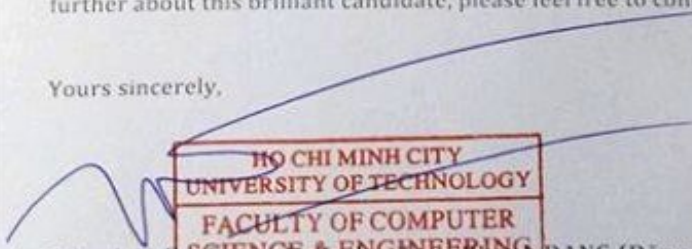

This letter represents my very strong and sincere endorsement of Mr. Duong Hoan Vu, a young and brilliant person of great promise in my faculty of Computer Science and Engineering. His intelligence, confidence and determination make him a very distinctive student among his peers.

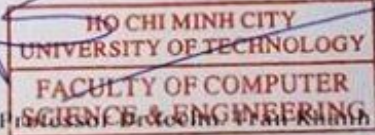

I have known Mr. Vu for about 1 year as a lecturer of database systems class. It is my great pleasure to recommend him for the undergraduate program in Information Technology at Fairleigh Dickinson University.

Vu showed his determination with a great sense of responsibility and work commitment which surprised me most. With my assignment requiring client application, for example, he not only fulfills all requirements but also implements some more features and functions for the users. In addition, he stayed after class to discuss the topics and solutions that I had brought up. Although I usually challenge my students beyond the material I provided, he is active and does not merely rely on what I taught. He earned a final grade of 9, the 2nd highest score in that course. As the Vice Dean of Faculty of Computer Science and Engineering at HCMUT, I endorse Vu as a student with excellent academic performance.

I firmly believe that he will accomplish the program successfully. If you would like to know further about this brilliant candidate, please feel free to contact me.

Yours sincerely,
